Dear Ms. Walli,

I would like to register my firm opposition to the attempt by the electricity distributors to in effect gouge the ratepayers yet again, this time to recover costs that were levied against them by the Ontario Supreme Court of Justice in a class action lawsuit that resulted from improprieties on the part of said distributors.

How ludicrous to consider such action. To even think that ratepayers should be held for ransom to release distributors from their own folly is ridiculous at best and a flagrant snub to our judicial system and those it is mandated to protect. There is an appeal process in place for any who feel unjustly treated by the judicial system. Let the distributors follow this course of action or take their lumps like any other member of society must do.

For the board to even entertain the idea of giving this matter serious consideration is pathetic. Please cease and desist and grow up!!!

Jim McShane
