It is now about 30 years since the New York State power line discussion but it needs to be repeated that there are health impacts of these lines which are becoming better understood and which impacts will not cease to exist because they are ignored.

Additionally, these lines by virtue of their intended use are aiding and abetting an aesthetic travesty upon our landscape with the industrial wind mills and in the future when the health costs are better understood, responsibility will be assigned regardless of present government policies which ignore the evidence.
