

From: Alan Boch [REDACTED]
Sent: March-28-14 9:14 AM
To: BoardSec
Subject: Big profit wins again

Thank you to the OEB for allowing bug business to win again. I know of no industry that can raise their priced by 40% and keep their customers. Except if course in the case of a monopoly and where the government at both levels directly benefits in terms of new tax revenue. How disgusting that you allow such an increase when people struggle each day to make ends meet. How about seniors on fixed income. How can they see their heating bills jump 40% or more once taxes are included. Their pensions do not increase 40%. What makes this even more disgusting is I know someone who works for Embridge, if you call what he does work. His salary for what hr does us so wrong it isn't even funny. You allow this company to gouge the consumer with no regard for them. I love the part where Embridge says consumers won't feel the full impact if the increase until next winter. No kidding, a three year old could figure that out. People use mist of their natural gas to heat. Therefore I don't know to many people who heat in the spring and summer. OEB is only concerned about protecting the interests of the Monopolies they over see not the consumer. Also I really like that the increase is only in an "intern" basis. FYI so were Income Taxes when they came out. I will bet any amount that prices will never drop more than 2%, and I even believe prices will increase by another 5 to 10% in the next 3 years. Nice job on your end to protect us.

A disgusted Ontario resident,
Alan Boch