Hi. I apologize for still not having filed the SEC interrogatories. I am traveling in Europe, and on Wednesday I had a full computer crash (on a train, no less). I have solved part of it, so my email and internet functionality is working again, but the critical part for interrogatories – access to my files and evidence – is still an issue. I hope to have it resolved in the next day or two, and I will provide my interrogatories shortly after I am up and running again.

I apologize for the delay. Of course, if my late filing results in late responses, we would support any request from CNPI for an extension of time.

Jay
