To whom it may concern,

Hello, I am writing with regards to the recent application of Hydro One to increase distribution rates for customers.

May I ask why this is even remotely possible?

I would like to point out that, unfortunately, many of us citizens do NOT make more money every consecutive year. As such, I am a person who works by contract in the Animation industry...and I cannot renegotiate my contracts once I have signed on to them. How is it that a company can propose to increase rates per month every year for the next five years if there is no corresponding increase in wages to compensate citizens for the difference?

Companies are legally obligated to generate profit for themselves. Perhaps something can be done to rectify this legal loophole so that companies can stop grabbing money from citizens in this manner?

Thank you for your time and consideration, it is very much appreciated that you have taken time to reconsider this matter.

Thank you and have a fantastic day!

Amanda
