My house in Kincardine was built 40 years ago and is heated by baseboard heaters. At present there is no natural gas in the area and even if there was it would very costly to upgrade to gas heat, with a payback time of about 20 years. I have put in a forced air cassette under the rebate program from Hydro One in the hopes that it will moderate my electricity bill . To charge more for delivery in my opinion is a money grab . More planning and smarter use of the money already collected for delivery should be looked at rather than immediately hitting the consumer with a rate hike
