I strongly oppose the sale of PDI. As we ramp up our climate action efforts, the generation network will almost certainly decentralize (solar, biomass etc). If Peterborough wants to step forward, it will be much easier if we are in control of our distribution network. In Germany, communities are now trying to buy back their local networks (that we sold decades ago) so they can better integrate their local renewable generation. I don't want to be faced with trying to buy back what we never should have sold in the first place.
