as a person living by myself and paying bills all by myself, I just simply can't afford another bill increase. This year, I already received bill increases on the taxes, water, and electricity, having another gas increase (arguably the second highest bill after electricity) is really going to break me. I feel like the current rate is more than enough to cover the expenses of the gas company. Please don't make the gas rate another example of the electricity rate in Ontario!
