This is completely inappropriate to put extra financial burden on the Enbridge consumers while the families are already facing acute financial hardship to cope with day to day livings. And Enbridge enjoys monopoly as no private sector competitions are available. In fact it must be open to international competitors subject to regulated by the government authorities.

The prices are already so high and instead of hiking again Enbridge must reduce prices in order to give some relief to already financially burdened consumers. every government agencies are keep increasing prices such as property taxes, insurances etc. and now carbon tax.

I would suggest to put an moratorium on any price increase for next 5 to 10 years and by increasing productivity and efficiency, Enbridge must manage to be still a profitable venture.

Thanks
