Please carry through with your determination to remove the Seasonal classification from Hydro One rate structure. It discriminates against electricity customers -- all of whom should be charged equally and fairly based on their cost to the system and not on an arbitrary standard set by useage by Hydro One. I am happy to pay my fair costs, but should not be responsible for paying for a customer who requires excessive delivery costs based on their location. How can you justify charging one customer one delivery charge and another - located right next door - a very different and lower delivery charge. Where is the fairness.
