Re: file # EB-2020-0246, seasonal residential rate class change.

Regarding our property located on [REDACTED], your recent letter indicates this property will undergo a rate classification change to R2, resulting in an estimated 54% increase in our electricity bill.

As you can imagine, this is a shockingly huge increase to our all electric home we occupy for 6 months of the year. And I assume this rate increase will be on top of any occasional general rate increases that occur over time.

We would appreciate any information available on rate mitigation and future rate increases so we can plan accordingly. We may have to consider alternate energy sources for our home.

Thankyou
