Attn: Christine E. Long, Registrar and Board Secretary

Dear Ms Long:

Re: EB-2020-0091, EGI – IRP – GEC Cost Claim

Attached please find GEC's cost claim in this matter. The claim includes the costs of Mr. Neme of Energy Futures Group, the expert witness jointly sponsored by GEC and ED.

Although the total fees for Mr. Neme's evidence are more than was forecast, this relates almost entirely to elements outside of Mr. Neme's and counsel's control. Those elements are as follows:

First, when the estimate was prepared, a technical conference had not yet been ordered. Preparation and attendance for it was therefore not included in the estimate. A technical conference was later convened and Mr. Neme was required to prepare and attend a large part of it as he was last on the schedule. This resulted in an additional 26 hours.

Second, when the estimate was prepared, presentation days had not yet been ordered and were therefore not included in the estimate. Presentation days were later convened and Mr. Neme was required to prepare and attend a large part of it as he was late on the schedule. This resulted in an additional 30 hours.

Third, Mr. Neme's estimate noted that the "estimates of time for drafting IR responses, standing cross and developing undertakings are a best estimate" and that "actual time may vary depending on how many and what type of IRs" are asked, among other things. It turns out that Mr. Neme received extensive questions that ultimately necessitated 71 pages of interrogatory responses with a corresponding requirement of 28.5 hours, or 20.25 hours more than initially assumed.

These three items account for 76.25 of the 93.25 hours Mr. Neme incurred above his planned level of effort.

In addition, Mr. Neme was also required to attend for a large part of the hearing due to scheduling and to ensure that he would be able to speak to testimony of other witnesses that occurred before him. This added time was not due to any lack of diligence or prudence on behalf of Mr. Neme or of counsel.

Finally, Mr. Neme's final account also includes time spent supporting counsel throughout the process that is incremental to the time needed to prepare and defend testimony which was the subject of the estimate.

It should be noted that Mr. Neme, counsel, and all parties, required added time in light of the revision of the ICF report and the Enbridge IRP plan proposal.

This was a first-of-its-kind hearing at the OEB. This amplified the already inherently difficult task of estimating hours that depend in part on the actions of other parties outside of one's control. Most of these factors affecting the scale of the expert account also apply to the efforts of counsel. We respectfully submit that Mr. Neme costs and that of counsel were prudent in the context and should be paid in full.

Sincerely,
