Electricity is nearly half the price in Russia. How can it be that we need to pay more? Who isn't making enough money? This is an essential service - and should not be considered a money making enterprise. Don't be gross. Be better humans. If anyone associated with London hydro is pulling in 6 figures, no increase is needed. No one needs to make over 100k/year. It would be nice, sure. But it isn't necessary. So asking people who make 1/4 of that to pay more is gross. Don't do it.
