Based on my current monthly bill and upon the proposed increase for former UNION Gas customers in the South region, calculations indicate an increase of approximately 8.6% to my annual gas bill. This is unacceptable. Present inflation is perpetuated by companies that push the limit of their perceived costs to supply a product. Rather than optimize internally they push their problems onto the consumer as an easy way out of the predicament. In order to prevent further inflation the OEB needs to send a message to companies, which supply critical services and products, that this is not the ethical way to operate.
