Costs are rising for faster and higher than inflation. With every company and executive trying to get their bigger piece of the pie this needs to stop somewhere. They should be able to collect more money to cover true expenses and maximize total compensation at 1 million. Any extra income received must redistributed either through a discount on bills or by paying people back.

Soon people won't be able to afford to live. All utilities should be wholly owned by the people because it is for the people.
