Enbridge does not need to continue to increase the rates of service for natural gas. This company has already continued to make extenuating profits amidst a pandemic and inflation. Citizens should not be left to freeze over while companies make more money than they need to deliver less of a service average people can afford. People in charge are accountable to citizens well being and ability to live comfortably, safely, and manageably, instead of serving the needs of a company that does not put its clients first.
