With many people struggling to make ends meet, this is another way to keep out wallets empty by Enbridge who is already enjoying record profits year over year. Even with the increase in cost to get gas to consumers this increase will just add to their next quarter profits and they can just give everything back to the shareholders with bare minimum investment. I vehemently protest this large price increase with a possible recession around the corner. This is another injustice by big corporations to keep everyday people poor and keep them desperate for money.
