Dear OEB.

With the cost of inflation the way it is now, and the uncertainty of the world market as a whole, why in gods name are the natural gas companies even contemplating raising gas prices in a year from now!! We are heading into a recession and we will not even be close to recovering by January of 2024 for one thing and then approve a four year contract!! The world is in chaos!

People are expressing their fear of not being able to heat their homes this winter let alone in 2024. Let me remind you that you or the gas companies have a crystal ball. To speculate in these times is ludicrous!!

It is your job to look out for the people in this country and insure people have the ability to stay warm and heat there homes. Instead of raising the rates for everyone, maybe target these huge mansions of greater than 2000 square feet that only have a couple of people living in them. Target the homes and people that own them that don't care about the footprint they leave behind. They are the ones who should have to pay more not struggling everyday citizens or people like myself on a fixed income.

You were established to look after the people of this country so please do that!

Sincerely

Calvin Henderson
