Many public sector employees, myself included, do not get pay raises based on inflation. Currently there are huge issues with pay, no matter where you work, not keeping up with inflation. Bluewater Power is a huge company making profits every year, I don't think it's in the best interest of the public to give them MORE money when our wages are not increasing with inflation. If anyone deserves more money, it's health care workers, teachers, public servants, ECEs. It's not right, gouging more money from the consumer.
