This is wrong. At a "unprecedented" time where people are struggling to avoid to pay bills and buy food, essential services like hydro and gass should be capped.

If this was an increase due to storm damage to infrastructure, then it would be warranted. If this was to increase prices due to higher costs, it can be justified.

But when you see year to date profits up 13% and year over year quarterly profits up 15%, then this is once again corporate greed to take more money from the people and pay it out to stakeholders. This is unacceptable.

With inflation still not under control, the bank of Canada will still be pressuring the lending rates to treand upwards. This will cause even more payments on mortgages and loans. These increases will leave less money in peoples pockets.

Gas is a driving factor in the Consumer Price Index, and the responsible thing to do is decrease our natural gas rates to assist people that have no other choice but to use it.

If Embridge is allowed to have increased rates, it will be at the peril of the working class of this country, and you allowing it will be a contributing factor to pushing Canada into a deeper recession.

Please do the right thing and say not to corporate greed.
