I respectfully request more details of the rationale for a pricing increase beyond 'it's the first request since amalgamation' with Union Gas. Is the increase going to investment into how Enbridge is going to be net zero by 2030 or 2050? Does it get invested in carbon capturing at the source or plant levels or better still, diversifying investment and research into alternative clean energies instead of fracking and off shore mining like Baie du Nord that doesn't include net-zero by 2050 past extraction? Maybe Enbridge is channeling the money into care for cancer patients given its product helps to create it?

Please advise if any of these is the case. Otherwise, I don't see the need for an increase given the minimum of $3 billion profit in 2021. Please advise that Enbridge is moving forward in a better direction in this age of climate change as I would sincerely hope they are not merely gouging the customer while they still can.
