I imagine it doesn't matter what I say or submit, this survey is only meant to placate the public while you hike gas rates anyways. But here goes nothing : I know my husband and I will be fine , we are lucky, we have stable middle class jobs but with the culminate increase of utilities and services in home ownership over the last year has made us rethink any renovation projects or travel plans while we adjust. I worry for others who are on fixed incomes. I wish there was a law that only allowed for utilities to be increased at the same rate minimum wage is. I look forward to reading whatever news report comes from this survey but I have little faith it will make any difference. Merry Christmas, enjoy your bonuses.
