Notices A910

Ontario Energy Board Commission de l'énergie de l'Ontario

NOTICE OF APPLICATION AND HEARING FOR AN ELECTRICITY DISTRIBUTION RATE CHANGE
Chatham-Kent Hydro Inc.

The Ontario Energy Board has received an application on November 01, 2007 under section 78 of the Ontario Energy Board Act, 1998, S.O. 1998, c. 15 (Schedule B), seeking approval for changes to the rates that Chatham-Kent Hydro Inc. charges for electricity distribution, to be effective May 1, 2008. The Board has assigned the application file number EB-2007-0881. The Board's decision on this application may have an effect on all of Chatham-Kent Hydro Inc.'s customers.

Any change to the rates that Chatham-Kent Hydro Inc. charges for electricity distribution will be reflected in the delivery charges. Delivery charges are one of four regular items on residential and general service customers' electricity bills and vary depending on the amount of electricity consumed.

Chatham-Kent Hydro Inc. indicates that if the application is approved as filed, a residential customer consuming 1,000 kWh per month would experience an approximate change in the electricity bill ranging from a decrease of 2.5% to an increase of 5.4%, depending on their rate zone. A small general service customer consuming 2,000 kWh per month and having a monthly demand of 50 kW or lower would see an approximate 0.5% decrease in the electricity bill.

How to see Chatham-Kent Hydro Inc.'s Application
Copies of the application are available for inspection at the Board's office in Toronto and on its website, www.oeb.gov.on.ca, and at Chatham-Kent Hydro Inc.'s office.

Thousands join transit strikers

PRESIDENT SAYS PROTESTS WON'T DERAIL PLANS TO OVERHAUL FRANCE

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

PARIS — President Nicolas Sarkozy stood firm against spreading strikes Tuesday, insisting he will not water down plans for a thorough overhaul of France, even as civil servants joined the walkouts and thousands of protesters took to the streets.

Sarkozy was characteristically defiant as he broke what had been an unusual silence during a week of transit strikes that have disrupted travel across the country. He accused the strikers of holding commuters "hostage" and called for them to return to work.

Turning to critics who hope he can be forced to back away from deep economic, social and political changes for a country that has proved difficult to reform, Sarkozy had a simple message: Forget it.

"France needs reforms to meet the challenges imposed on it by the world," he said in a spirited speech to mayors. "These reforms have been too long in coming and we will not retreat."

Sarkozy appears to have the upper hand in his test of strength with powerful transport unions fighting tougher pension rules. Opinion polls say the public strongly supports the president and strikers have been trickling back to work on subway and long-distance trains.

If he wins the faceoff, Sarkozy will improve his chances for pushing through even bigger and more ambitious reforms. One involves slimming down and reforming the civil service, whose five million workers make it France's largest employer.

Sarkozy insisted in his speech that he didn't deliberately pick the fight with the train unions.

But he certainly chose the field of combat well: Pension rights that train drivers and other specially classed workers are fighting to protect are cushier than those enjoyed by most in France. Sarkozy says pension rights should be equal for all, and he has public opinion on his side.

Sarkozy "hasn't won the gamble yet, because the trains still aren't running. But it seems he will win," said Etienne Schweisguth, a researcher at the respected Sciences Po school of political sciences in Paris.

"If he wins this first test of strength then a bastion will have given way. Unions, workers, leftists will be less disposed to strike in the future," Schweisguth said in a telephone interview.

"He will have weakened the opponents of reform."

The question now is when and how the transport strike, which was heading into its eighth full day Wednesday, might end.

Talks with transport unions were to start Wednesday and the government said state representatives would take part. In his speech, Sarkozy said, "You have to know how to stop a strike when the time for discussion opens."

Transport workers are not his only challenge. Hundreds of thousands of civil servants stayed off the job Tuesday to press their separate demands for pay raises and job security.

Mayor rallies town to round up cattle

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

STOYSTOWN, Pa. — Cattle roundups are mostly a thing of the past, and this is western Pennsylvania, not the Wild West.

None of that mattered Thursday, when a resident called to report a herd of cattle stampeding through her yard.

Mayor Bill Boyd was first on the scene, honking his horn at the nine bulls, cows and calves that were plodding along, barely 100 metres from Main Street in the borough of just over 400 people, about 130 kilometres southeast of Pittsburgh. Boyd got eight of the critters to stop, but the ninth just kept moseying toward the main drag.

That was when police officer Nathan Claycomb joined the mayor in trying to head the stubborn animal off at the pass.

Then a handful of residents joined in, and together they managed to get the wandering herd corralled on a nearby field.

Boyd said he didn't know who owned the cattle.

"I'm going to assume everything worked out favourably," the mayor said.
