Oliver MacLaren, JD

Partner – Olthuis Kleer Townshend LLP

Oliver grew up in Edmonton and received his BA from the University of Alberta, and JD from the University of Calgary. He worked with the Chief Negotiator during the negotiation of the Indian Residential Schools Settlement and participated in the design of the National Truth and Reconciliation Commission.

Following law school, Oliver spent several years in Calgary working for Alberta and BC First Nations with oil and gas production occurring on their reserves. During this time, Oliver made appearances before energy regulatory tribunals, including the Alberta Energy Regulator and the Alberta Utilities Commission, and worked on submissions at all levels of court, including the Supreme Court of Canada.

Oliver moved to Toronto in 2011 and joined Olthuis Kleer Townshend LLP (“OKT”) as an associate lawyer. In Toronto, Oliver built up a practice focused on indigenous economic development, particularly in the renewable energy sector including wind, solar, hydro, battery storage, and biomass. Starting with the 60MW McLean’s Mountain Wind Farm on Manitoulin Island and continuing through numerous rounds of provincial energy procurements, Oliver has negotiated partnerships for many successful project bids, and closed dozens of transactions for his First Nation clients raising hundreds of millions of dollars in equity financing and negotiating government guarantees for the repayment of loans to ensure high returns and positive economic development experiences for his clients.

Aside from renewable energy, Oliver’s practice has encompassed other transactions of national importance, including the purchase of the Hudson Bay Railway, the Port of Churchill, and related Tank Farm assets in northern Manitoba, off grid sustainable energy generation for isolated Alberta First Nations, and significant transactions in the offshore fishery on the East Coast and in the Nunavut mining sector.

Oliver also works as counsel to Gwayakocchigewin Limited Partnership, a limited partnership composed of 8 First Nations that negotiated the inaugural partnership in Hydro One Networks Inc.’s new indigenous engagement policy commitment of 50% indigenous ownership for all projects over $100million. This project, the Waasigan project, is currently being developed by Gwayakocchigewin in partnership with Hydro One. The $1.2 billion project has received its leave to construct, with an expected completion in late 2025. Oliver is also counsel to Caldwell First Nation on the $224 million Chatham x
