I am not sure I understand why there is an increase being proposed. Personally, I already pay more for distribution of electricity than I do consumption on a monthly basis. Electricity is a necessity and adding another $72 per year to people who are already strapped with all costs rising, is frustrating and exhausting, especially when the CEO makes 500K to 1.5 million a year. It may not seem like a large increase to some, but for many it is. People on fixed incomes are in a difficult position already and this just adds extra burden on them.
