I refuse to believe that enbridge needs to increase their rates. I'm sure they are very profitable already and just using inflation as an excuse to gouge customers. Every aspect of life has become completely unaffordable to the average person.

I feel like I'm being iced out by society.

These small increase seem like nothing to the bean counters over at the company but when everything is constantly increasing by 3-15% but my wage either stays the same or only goes up 1-2% I am getting closer and closer to poverty.

Hydro/Gas/Internet and other essential services should be required to show proof that a price increase is needed for them to not lose money if they want to raise prices.

I am tired of companies doing this.
