As a former employee of Union Gas I hope the OEB declines to allow Enbridge any rate increases until they start using some cost saving measures. For Example in one town in Northwestern Ontario they have a brand ne close to 12 million dollar building for 3 employees to sit around and hope the don't die of boredom. Almost all the work they used to do has been contracted out so they just hang out. The company spends thousands of dollars on training them then contracts out the work. no small business could afford this and Enbridge needs quit passing on costs from a management that wants to avoid any responsibility on to the consumer.
