LETTER OF COMMENT

Comments:

Please allow this letter to serve as opposition to proposed increases in residential service distribution and billing rates. The economic landscape has become increasingly challenging for younger generations to own or rent a home, whether they are starting a family or pursuing homeownership independently. It is imperative that we do not make it even more difficult for these individuals to achieve their goals. Increasing rates and necessary living costs is a decision that contributes to the broader problem we face. We urge you to consider the plight of hardworking individuals striving to make a living and to exercise humility in your decision-making. Let us reward those who are hardworking, rather than penalizing them by making independent living unaffordable. Thank you.
