At a time when peoples with disabilities, senior citizens, and otherwise locked income persons cannot afford their grocery bills or healthcare, a rate hike by a large service provider is blatantly cruel. A private company with a board of directors should be doing a better job at attracting new clients/consumers by providing cheaper, more secure power than by pricing gouging their current clientele. Maybe the board of directors running Canadian Niagara Power should be losing their annual bonuses, shares, or even their jobs if this is the best idea they can come up with to keep the company's revenue stream up. Shame on them. They should be asking for funding from the Ontario Government, and have them take it out of the budget for the private spa at Ontario Place.
