I would like to express how concerned I am about another increase in electricity rates. I am a low-income consumer, and I am already struggling with the rising costs of groceries, property taxes, gas, and other basic necessities. Some people, including myself, have not received a wage increase in the past two years. An increase of $6 may not seem like a significant amount, but over the course of a year, it adds up—and for someone living on a limited income, every dollar matters. I respectfully ask the Ontario Energy Board to carefully review the proposed London Hydro electricity rate increase and consider the impact that repeated increases are having on low-income consumers
