LETTER OF COMMENT

Comments:
I am writing as an Ontario resident concerned about electricity affordability, consumer protection, and the long-term consequences of utility consolidation. I respectfully request that the Board examine the following matters before approving the proposed transaction: 1. Ratepayer protection: What enforceable safeguards will prevent acquisition and transition costs from being recovered from customers, directly or indirectly, now or through future rate applications? 2. Financial transparency: What are the projected transaction costs, operational savings, and financial benefits? Will these figures be independently assessed and publicly reported? 3. Customer benefits: What measurable improvements in electricity affordability, reliability, and customer service will result from this acquisition? 4. Service accountability: What protections will ensure that existing service standards, outage response capabilities, and local customer support are maintained? 5. Future amalgamation: How will the Board ensure that Phase 2 does not transfer additional costs or financial risks to electricity customers? I also request that the Board consider requiring transparent post-transaction reporting and measurable consumer-protection commitments. While I recognize that utility consolidation may produce operational efficiencies, those benefits should be supported by evidence rather than assumptions. I respectfully ask that these concerns be considered in the Board's decision and that the applicant address them on the public record. Please include this letter in proceeding EB-2026-0238. Sincerely, Roshan Kahlon Brampton, Ontario
